

CONFERENCE GLOBAL HEALTH – TROMSØ, 6-8 JUNE 2010

The 5th Conference on Global Health and Vaccination Research will commence in Tromsø 6-8 June 2010. The conference will last from Sunday afternoon 6 June until Tuesday afternoon 8 June.

The main topic this year will be Climate Change, Environment, Human Health and Human Adaptation. The focus should be broad; public health, environmental health, contaminants, as well as social and cultural issues are welcomed.

For those who want to participate also in the IPY conference in Oslo it is a perfect solution to start in Tromsø and finish in Oslo. This way you will see most of Norway in one week! The Steering group consists of Norwegian Forum for Global Health Research, the Research Council of Norway, NORAD, the Directorate for Health and the University of Tromsø.

This will be "The place to be" for all those who are interested in research, development and policy related to global health. For students there will be opportunities for generous travel grants and possibilities for oral presentations (limited) and poster presentations (not limited!).

Please add the conference website to your favourites:

<http://www.globalhealth.no/>

The website will be updated with all the necessary information on a regular basis as the program is developed. Please note that the hotel capacity might be limited, so please register as soon as the announcement is up!

Norwegian Forum
for Global Health Research